Recommended Spots Along the Railway Line

Kamakura in the autumn allows you to enjoy the beautifully colored leaves at various Buddhist and Shinto holy spots. On Mt. Oyama, which is easily accessible from Tokyo (Shinjuku), you can enjoy the majestic scenery of the beautiful fall leaves.

Hase-dera Temple

長谷寺

From late November through early December, this temple will be the only temple in Kamakura with a night illumination. The maples in the temple grounds will be lit up, creating a mystical atmosphere.

Kaizoji Temple

海蔵寺

This is said to be the first place in Kamakura where the leaves change color. Especially wonderful are the colored maples near the bell tower, as well as those that form a tunnel on the way into the temple.

Access

20-minute walk from Kamakura Station

Recommended Spots in the Hakone Area

Hakone is a popular tourist destination easily accessible from Tokyo, and is filled with nature and beautiful spots where you can enjoy the autumn leaves. Come and enjoy the amazing scenery of autumn in any of a variety of Buddhist temples, parks, hot springs, and more!

Onshi-Hakone Park

恩賜箱根公園

Look out over Lake Ashi, as it is surrounded by red- and gold-tinted autumn majesty. The park itself also has trees that will take on a variety of colors. Take the walking path to enjoy the beautiful scenery as you stroll about.

Access

What Does "Koyo" Mean?

As you all know, when autumn comes to an end the leaves fall off the trees. When the color of these leaves changes from green to yellow or red, Japanese call that phenomenon "koyo." "Koyo" also refers to the color-changed leaves themselves. Sometimes the leaves change color but do not fall from their branches. The maple (which, depending on the variety, changes yellow or red) and the ginkgo (which leaves change to a beautiful yellow) are archetypal examples.

How to have even more fun in the Hakone/Kamakura area during autumn season!

Why not go for a relaxing bike ride in Hakone or Kamakura?

You can also get around town on a uniquely Japanese rickshaw! And let's not forget that fall is the perfect time to visit Sengokuhara Pampas Grass Fields.

Hakone Ashinoko Camp Mura Rent-a-Cycle

芦ノ湖キャンプ村 レンタサイクル

Why not use an environmentally friendly rent-a-cycle to get around the sites of Hakone? Electric bicycles are also available, making sure that hills are no problem and allowing even those who are not sure about their physical fitness to cycle with ease.

Access

About 45 minutes from Hakone-Yumoto Station via Hakone Tozan Bus bound for Togendai to "Togendai" and then 10-minute walk to the site
